Ludwig van Beethoven
1770-1827

Two lesser-known pieces by two well-known composers: Beethoven’s Sonata Op. 14 in E Major and Liszt’s “Les jeux d’eaux à la Villa d’Este” are experimental gems that feature very little of the signature sound that made their creators famous. Ingenious and playful, these delightful treasures deftly show that Beethoven and Liszt were willing to step outside their comfort zones to channel—and in one case, foreshadow—the work of other composers.
