Great Britain brings majesty to many things including music. Explore the majestic themes of several British composers (featured at an upcoming December 1st concert) and learn some behind the scene details of how large wind bands combine and coordinate dozens of skills that result in a symphonic concert.

The SJMB musical director and conductor, Greg Bergantz, will be leading the lecture/discussion the attributes and characteristics of traditional British themes and melodies. Illustrating (playing) the themes will be David Brown (euphonium), Ed Lacina (French horn), and Ron May-Pumphry (woodwinds).
